Lean Canvas

1. Customer segments:
   Our targeted customer and user are people of all ages, all social and ethnic origins who ares interested into lending or renting some useful object and tools that we need only a few time in their life.
2. Customer Problem:
   a. Our customers need certain specific object that cost a lot but won't be useful in daily life.
   b. They want to preserve the environment by not buying stuff that come from the other side of the planet.
   c. They don't trust the traditional way to rent their object to total strangers and need something they can relate to.
3. Unique value proposition:
   Have you ever needed to use a specific tool that was expensive but not very useful in everyday life? NeedItNow is for you! Now you can borrow what you need from people in your neighborhood.

4. Solution:
   Customers can really meet their expectations to preserve the environment by renting or lending stuff in an ultra-local sector near their homes. We also are a sign of trust for the customer who wants to lend something, by implementing an innovant system of trust based on different interaction between users and by an intelligent way to manage theIr warranty deposit for each client.